

Scopus Journal Pre-evaluation

Serves as a preliminary check for technical and administrative criteria in order to boost chances of a journal to be included in Scopus, and also to avoid a submission embargo period out of reasons that could be easily identified.

- Helps you to decide when to submit your journal to Scopus
- Identifies areas of improvement (if any)
- Shares tips and tricks on how to improve journal
- It's free of charge

Submit information about your journal through online form

Elsevier will check readiness of your journal for full submission to Scopus

Within 1 month you will receive report

Submit your journal now for journal Pre-evaluation: <http://bit.do/scopus>

Disclaimer: Journal can decide at any time, disregarding the existence of and/or result of pre-evaluation, to proceed with submission to the Scopus database. The pre-evaluation shall not be liable for the final result of the full journal evaluation as pursued by the independent Content Selection Advisory Board (CSAB).